MARKING TRUNKS.

Odd Devices Used by Which to Easily Identify Baggage.

A curious fashion of marking trunks by some individual and odd device has come into practice. It is a trick that helps to identify one's baggage instantly, even at a distance, in a crowded railway station, and thus facilitates travel, especially abroad, where so much red tape entangles baggage transportation.

Some of the devices used are queer, to say the least. A lover of dogs had big brindle's heads in brown and white painted at intervals on all her trunks and suit cases before sailing for Germany. She felt sure, she said, that she would be able to identify her buggage anywhere by these signs.

Another curious design is that of skull and crossbones, done in black. white and red, on top, sides and ends of trunk and on the bottom of every bag of one traveler.

Dumbbell designs in red, white and blue identify another lot of baggage.

One society woman has her trunks all marked with a design of a pair of gloves, painted red, black and gold, and appearing as if just taken off the hand and carelessly tossed in the Family crests in gold and colors are used, and college girls going abroad have curious Chinese dragons, birds, etc., done in oriental color combinations on their baggage. - New York

Studio Manners Bad.

"Why do you dip your own spoon into the general sugar bowl?" asked the particular woman of the bachelor

"I don't know," replied the bachelor girl plaintively, "unless it is because my studio life is corrupting my good manners. When you eat your breakfast all by yourself and there's nobody else to dip a spoon into the sugar bowl and it's all your own spoon and all your own sugar bowl and there's nobody to see or to care, why, you are almost bound to get careless and forget and dip it into other sugar bowls. aren't you?"-New York Press.

Sculptors' Potboilers.

They were walking past a beautiful pink and white house in New York whose door cap was most exquisitely carved. The sculptor pointed to it. "My work," he said. "That's the potboiling I do while I work on my masterpiece. It is nothing unusual with sculptors to do such work. Two of the finest pieces that were sold to the Metropolitan museum last winter were done by a man whose regular business it is to make door caps."

The Usual Way.

"Papa," said Jacky, "would you like to have me give you a birthday present?"

"Yes, indeed."

"Then now is the time to double my weekly pocket money, so's I'll have the money to buy it when your birthday comes."-Pearson's Weekly.

Stung to the Quick.

"Henry, you look very pale. What's

"I was stung to the quick by an adder this afternoon."

"How did it happen?"

"Why, I dropped in at the bank, and the bookkeeper told me my account was overdrawn."

FOR CASH SALE.

Four quarter-acre lots in one will be sold to the highest bidder 12 o'clock Tuesday noon, September 25, 1906, on the the following plan: (1) The bidders will decide what they can give for the place and then send their bids by mail or telegram to Mr. E. G. Evans, 1635 10th street N. W., Washington, D. C. A bidder may change his bid as often as he wishes but the last bid will be taken. These bids will be received until 8 o'clock, Monday night, September 24, 1906. Every bidder will make his letters and figures plain so there will means. No fictitious nor initial names will be considered.

September 25, 1906, Mr. E. G. Evans will telegraph the highest bidder, if the bid warrants the sale, naming the amount stated in his bid. At the same time Mr. E. G. Evans will telegraph the address of the winner and his figures to the Live Oak Bank, Live Oak, Florida. The highest bidder will go immediately and pay the amount over to the Live Oak Bank, Live Oak, Florida; or if the winner be not in Live Oak, Florida, he will immediately telegraph his money to the Live Oak Bank, Live Oak, Florida.

(3) As soon as the money is paid sioner of Agriculture of the State of Florida, and their successors in office, are hereby constituted over, the Live Oak Bank will tele- and designated as a board of drainage commissiongraph Mr. E. G. Evans at his expense. Mr. E. G. Evans will immediately telegraph an attorney at Live Oak, Fla., to make the transfer. Should the of Florida, or such parts or portions thereof as is deemed best by said board of drainage commisdelay action it may mean that he is not sincère, therefore after due course of time, the Bank would be telegraphed to drop the name and then the next highest name and amount would be sent to the bank.

When everything is agreeably settled, all bidders will be informed of their standing on the list and be heartily thanked for entering the con test. There will be no way for a bidder to find out from Mr. E. G. Evans what another has bid.
